

Curriculum Vitae

Kristen Lowitt PhD

Assistant Professor, Department of Geography, Brandon University, Manitoba, Canada.

Email: lowittk@brandonu.ca

OUTLOOK

I have completed a Bachelor of Environmental Studies (Honours) at York University, Canada, a Master of Environmental Studies at Dalhousie University, Canada, and a PhD degree in Interdisciplinary Studies (focusing on sustainable food systems and co-supervised in Geography and Sociology) at Memorial University. My doctoral research examined how marine ecosystem restructuring affected the food systems of coastal communities on the island of Newfoundland, Canada. I am currently Assistant Professor in the Department of Geography at Brandon University. In this role, I teach undergraduate classes about place, environment, and sustainability, and pursue a research program looking at the intersections of environmental and economic change and food security in rural and coastal regions.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

- Sustainable food systems and food policy
- Natural resource management
- Qualitative research methods
- Participatory research

EDUCATION

- PhD. Interdisciplinary Studies. Memorial University. 2013.
An examination of rural and coastal foodscapes: Insights for the study of community food security and sustainable food systems.
Co-supervisors: Professors Barb Neis, Sociology and Charlie Mather, Geography
Committee members: Professors Shirley Solberg, Sean Cadigan, and Ralph Martin
Course work:
 - Methods in Sociological Research (quantitative methods)
 - Advanced Studies in Social History
 - Directed Readings in Geography (focus on economic geography and food value chains)
 - Maritime SociologyComprehensive examinations completed in the fields of Rural Studies and Maritime Social Science
- Master of Environmental Studies. Dalhousie University. 2008.
A comparative case study of Nova Scotia farmers' markets: Exploring connections among people, places and food.
Co-supervisors: Professors Fay Cohen and Alan Warner
- Bachelor of Environmental Studies (Honours). York University. 2006.

Curriculum Vitae

TECHNICAL AND PROFESSIONAL TRAINING

- Syllabus Workshop, Purdy Crawford Teaching Centre, Mount Allison University. (2017).
- Communicating Research for Policy influence, Canadian International Food Security Research Fund Workshop (2014).
- Teaching Skills Enhancement Program, Memorial University (2012).
